

To You Who Bring Small Children to Church:

There you are sitting in worship or Bible study. Your child or toddler is restless, perhaps they are even a little boisterous. You try to silence them, and nothing. You try to pacify them with food or toys, and nothing. Eventually, you resort to the last thing you wanted to do; you pick them up, and before a watching audience, you make the march out of the auditorium. All the while, you are a little embarrassed. Maybe you are a little frustrated too. You might even think to yourself, "There is no point in coming to church. I get nothing out of it because I have to constantly care for my kid." I want you - mothers and/or fathers - to know just how encouraging you are to so many. The little elderly woman who often feels alone beams with a smile at the sight of you wrestling with your little one. She's been there before. She knows how hard it can be, but she smiles because to hear that brings back precious memories. To see young parents and their small children brighten her day, and she may have just received bad news this week about her health, but seeing the vitality of young ones removed - if but for a moment - her fears. The older man who always seems to be grouchy notices you too. He's always talking about how children in this day have no respect or sense of good. But, he sees you - a young family - in church, and you don't miss any gathering. Like clockwork, he can depend on the sight of you and your young family. You give him hope that maybe the church isn't doomed after all, because there are still young parents who love God enough to bring their restless children to worship. Bring your children to church. If you don't hear crying, the church is dying. As hard as it might be for you as a parent who's half asleep, keep on doing what you are doing. You are an encouragement, and you are starting off your children's lives as you should.

Missionary of the Week

February 4 – Beverly Byerly ministers to women who work under neon lights. She and a group of volunteers go into the dance clubs with trays heavy with food, scented lotions and candles along with gospel tracts. Cameras and guard will not let them speak to the dancers but they can show God's love by just being there and bringing items to them. Becky ask that we pray for continued open doors to minister to the dancers, bouncers, DJ's and bartenders. Most of the women have been hurt by Christians who magnify the women's sins but fail to see the person behind the actions. Becky says “No one cares about them so we wanted to show them that God’s love is for them as well as anyone else.
